

let them record their reports in voice format and allow public servants type them so as to allow them back on their streets to do their jobs.